

Jesus clearly commanded every believer to Go into all the world and proclaim the gospel (Mark 16:15). Yet, becoming comfortable sharing the gospel on a daily basis to those we meet is a goal few Christians ever attain. Why is this? There are reasons, and this book not only reveals what they are, but gives practical, down to earth, proven advice about how to overcome each one. Julian Batchelor, a scholar and an evangelist, shares what he has learnt as a result of more than 30 years in the field. Julian is not just a theorist. Thirty years ago he made it his goal to reach at least one person a day with a clear, loving, gracious, uncompromising gospel message. By Gods grace, hes reached literally tens of thousands of lost people with the most wonderful message in the world and hes recorded the insights and lessons he has learned in this book. If your heart is to do evangelism and do it will, you dont have to re-invent the wheel, and go through the steep learning curve Julian has had to go through. Its all in this book. Evangelism: How To Do It And How To Do It Well is a gold mine of practical advice and tips, a must read for every sincere Christian who wants to put a smile on the face of Jesus by taking an active part in the Great Commission.
