

We live in a world where fear is big business. Everywhere we turn, or so it seems, we are bombarded by media images that depict war, violence, destruction, poverty, and hopelessness. So its no wonder that we are beset by a cascade of fears that leave us troubled to the very core of our souls. As believers who have been touched by the transforming power of Christ, we need never lose hope: God is still in control, and we are protected. This book is intended to help readers redirect their thoughts and prayers to God. With seventeen chapters based on common fears, it contains scripture and words of encouragement for overcoming these fears, reminding readers to hand them over to God, turning to His promises and His protection.
