

Notes the Management of Chronometers and the Measurement of Meridian Distances (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Notes the Management of Chronometers and the Measurement of Meridian Distances In submitting to the notice of the naval profession a new edition of Notes on the Management of Chronometers, and the Measurement of Meridian Distances, the Author has been desirous of rendering this work still more worthy of the favourable attention of students of nautical science. The whole work has been carefully revised, and many small improvements introduced. The writings of recent French authors, Givry, De Comulier, Lieussou, Mouchez, Vincendon Dumoulin, Coupvent Desbois, and Charles Ploix, have been carefully examined, and many valuable extracts from their works, taken chiefly from the pages of the Recherches Chronometriques, a most useful publication, now in course of issue, under the auspices of the Minister of Marine at Paris, enrich the present volume both in the text and notes. The important questions of the effects of change of temperature, and the influence of the acceleration, have been fully entered into. For this purpose a new chapter (chapter vi.) has been interpolated in this edition, in which the systems of De Comulier, Lieussou, and Mouchez have been amply discussed and commented on.
