

The present book represents a very useful tool to promote the “Culture of Water” and provide an excellent and accessible outlook on the current situation of Water in today’s world. This is an impressive work, based on precise scientific evaluations, but written in an accessible and easy style that allows readers to increase their awareness on the various aspects of Water. Although it is designed for Post Graduate Courses, the Author offers to the wide public too an opportunity to learn more about the “Golden Blue” and its complicated interaction with almost all human activities. Author: Alessandro Leto, Genova (Italy), 1965, is currently considered one of the most brilliant analysts in the field of Sustainable Development. Well known to the public, he has taught graduate and post graduate Courses on Sustainable Development at the UN Staff College, the Italian Universities of Torino and Bologna and at Franklin College in Switzerland. His Lectures on the theme of Sustainability, with a focus on Water are highly appreciated around the world. He is the Author of a trilogy of documentary films on “The Man and the Water”, awarded with important prizes in Italy and Switzerland and of a number of successful books including: “Bentornata Africa” (NAME Edizioni, 2003), “La Mezzauna e il Crocifisso” (NAME Edizioni, 2004), “Alle Origini dello Sviluppo Sostenibile” (Cr. Edi. Edizioni, 2005), “Le PMI, un Modello da Esportare” (Elvetica Edizioni, 2008). Formerly Senior Advisor for the Italian Government and UNIDO, he is today committed to the research on the growing, wider impact Sustainable Development has on macro economic and political issues at international level. He is a frequent contributor to various European newspapers and magazine.
